Elena Melanson's Hey Stink is a powerful and inspiring story about a young girl who takes a stand against pollution and environmental degradation. This book is a must-read for young environmentalists and anyone who cares about the planet.

The story follows Stink, a young girl who lives in a small town on the coast of Maine. Stink is a curious and adventurous girl, and she loves to explore the natural world around her. But one day, she discovers that her favorite beach is covered in garbage. Stink is shocked and saddened by what she sees, and she decides to do something about it.

Stink starts by organizing a beach cleanup. She rallies her friends and family to help her clean up the beach, and they collect bags and bags of garbage. Stink's actions inspire others in her community, and soon, more and more people are getting involved in the cleanup effort.

Stink's story is a reminder that even one person can make a difference. Stink's actions show us that we all have the power to protect the environment and make the world a better place.

Hey Stink is a beautifully written and illustrated book. The story is engaging and inspiring, and the illustrations are vibrant and colorful. This book is sure to capture the attention of young readers and get them thinking about the importance of environmental protection.

If you are looking for a book that will inspire your child to care about the environment, then Hey Stink is the perfect book for you. This book is a must-read for young environmentalists and anyone who cares about the planet.
