The Dreamers, Schemers, and Millionaires Who Are Saving Our Planet profiles 12 entrepreneurs who are using their businesses to tackle environmental challenges. These entrepreneurs come from all walks of life, but they share a common goal: to make the world a better place.

One of the entrepreneurs profiled in the book is Lisa Dyson, the founder of Dyson Sphere. Dyson Sphere is a company that develops solar panels that can generate electricity even at night. This technology could help to make solar energy more affordable and accessible, which would be a major step towards reducing our reliance on fossil fuels.

Another entrepreneur profiled in the book is David Wallace, the founder of Impossible Foods. Impossible Foods is a company that produces plant-based meat that tastes and smells like real meat. Wallace believes that his company's products can help to reduce the demand for meat, which would have a positive impact on the environment.

The stories of these entrepreneurs are inspiring and hopeful. They show us that it is possible to make a difference in the world, even if you don't have a lot of money or resources. All it takes is a dream, a plan, and a lot of hard work.

If you're looking for a reason to be optimistic about the future of our planet, I highly recommend reading The Dreamers, Schemers, and Millionaires Who Are Saving Our Planet. These stories will inspire you and give you hope that we can overcome the challenges we face and build a more sustainable future.
