In the years leading up to the Stonewall Riots of 1969, the LGBTQ+ community faced immense prejudice and discrimination. Their stories were often hidden from history, but not anymore. "Hidden History of True Crime and Prejudice Before Stonewall" brings these untold stories to light, shedding light on the challenges and triumphs of our community during a time of great adversity.

This captivating book delves into the forgotten past, exploring the true crimes that targeted LGBTQ+ individuals and the prejudice they faced in every aspect of life. From police raids on gay bars to the Lavender Scare that purged LGBTQ+ people from government jobs, this book uncovers the systemic oppression that LGBTQ+ people endured.

But amidst the darkness, there were also stories of resilience and resistance. LGBTQ+ individuals fought back against prejudice and discrimination, forming organizations like the Mattachine Society and the Daughters of Bilitis. They organized protests, challenged laws, and demanded their rights. "Hidden History of True Crime and Prejudice Before Stonewall" celebrates their courage and determination, showing how they paved the way for the Stonewall Riots and the modern LGBTQ+ rights movement.

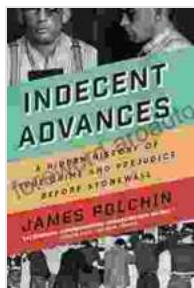

LGBTQ+ activists protesting in the 1960s
